Sentence (b) is correct, but the phrase "off to Scotland" uses be off, not off to. The to is part of to Scotland. This is meaning 34 of "off" in the WordReference dictionary: 34. starting on one's ...

I saw the previous thread for the $10 off of $50 coupon then I saw this $10 off of $25 coupon at slickdeals (posted by dneez over there) and though...

"Hats off to you" is generally a safe and well-understood way to express your appreciation and respect in contemporary English, including in work-related emails to colleagues of any gender. ...

Ditto, and to (2) you could add "I won't be in next week". In fact, you could take a week off trying to decide which one to use. They are all in the same register, and for normal conversational ...

Your choices (get off work, finish work, leave work) will all work fine finishing the question about a normal working day. I don't see much difference in formality, if any.

Do you say "get off the phone" only to someone who's talking on the phone with someone else? Or can it also be said to someone who's just playing with his phone, gaming, scrolling facebook ...

"First off" is a bit more informal than "first of all," although technically they mean the same thing (at least in AE). "First off" also sounds a little more like a BE usage than an AE usage.

Hello, Does anyone know what is the difference between "once-off" and "one-off" or whether once-off is used across the English-speaking world? Recently an English colleague corrected me ...

Topic phrases: fuck you / fuck off Added by Cagey, moderator Sorry for this stupid question but what's the difference between these 2 expressions?

Hello everyone! In a meeting I have heard people say "I need to drop off the meeting" and "I need to drop off to another meeting", and I wonder if the use of drop off is correct in this ...
